“ Soft spoken, gentle and gracious soul. Truly thought the world of this man. Love to Sharon and the family.

“ I knew John from about a dozen years working for him in the City Attorney's Office in Vallejo. I remember his methodical way of looking at the law, and how he taught us to be objective and thereby give the best advice we could for our clients. No one rushed John into the wrong decision. The stacks in his inbox were testament to both his careful analysis and how much people wanted his advice.

Later, when we switched to emails, when logging in, I mistakenly typed in John's name once... we have the same initials... I was freaked out to see I had about 300 emails, until I realized it was John Powers, not me, who had them!

I think John was the best boss I ever had. Looking back on it now, I appreciate even more how hard it must have been to shield us from the political pressure he was facing, so that we could do our jobs. John embodied honor, honesty, and courage, and never wavered in that.

We called him "The Big Guy," and that he truly was.
