“ *My Sympathy, thoughts and prayers to the family and friends of Ronald. "Bridges" as he was affectionately known because of his football skills, was so called after a Chelsea footballer. He and I represented Empire Club for many years. Tough as nails he was but always decisive in his tackles. Always immaculately attired and a true gentleman. We shared a drink or two at many sporting and social events. We lost track of each other as our lives took us in different directions. I found Ron again when I moved to Los Angeles from London and we spoke on the phone many times before another move took me to Miami. The news of his passing brought much sadness. I have lost a friend, my fellow defender, of whom I still cherish many photos of our Empire Club teams. His family and friends have lost A True Gentleman. Goodbye "Bridges" May Ronald Rest In Peace.
